

Senior Director Global Public Affairs and Communication

Our client, one of the world's most recognized and respected consumer packaged goods companies, is seeking a Senior Director Global Public Affairs and Communication (GPAC). Headquartered in the Midwest, the Company operates in more than 70 countries, employing approximately 12,000 people. The GPAC organization is a group of 18 people, who are focused, agile and roll up their sleeves to do what it takes to serve the company.

The Senior Director will lead the GPAC team with responsibility for strategic communication to internal and external audiences. The primary responsibilities of this position are to establish strategic direction for internal and external communication, lead image enhancement of the brands, and manage issues throughout the world.

Experience required: 15-20 years experience in public affairs, and internal communications, preferably from a nationally recognized, visible, well-regarded organization. Demonstrated change management experience preferred. An undergraduate degree in Journalism/Communications (or related discipline).

Please contact Karolyn Leonard for more information – kleonard@kionline.com